The Alien Life

York wasn't hanging around. Everyone knew the humanish couldn't cause much damage in the water. But once they hit the beach, look out.

Hi

How thin are the lines we cross?

I knew a guy who was probably dangerous, he had a way about him that suggested mayhem - a sort of calm intent, a resting need to act

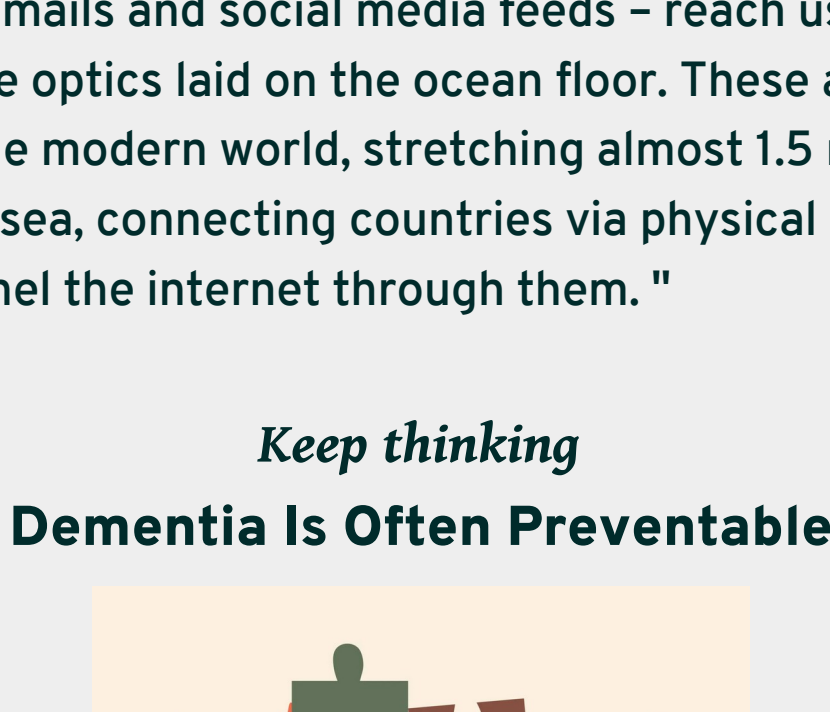

I'm not sure how it came to be that we were friends, but we were. I think he connected us through my lack of judgement, I didn't assume the worst

I listened to my friend, it turns out he wanted to be heard, and found a great intelligence diverted into anger, the lessons of the father became the son

I have made friends in passing with people I don't know now, they wanted only that I understand that I had met them on a path they couldn't find a way to leave

Easy disconnect

The hidden network of cables that power the internet

" Almost all internet traffic – including Zoom calls, movie streams, emails and social media feeds – reach us via high speed fibre optics laid on the ocean floor. These are the veins of the modern world, stretching almost 1.5 million km under the sea, connecting countries via physical cables which funnel the internet through them. "

Keep thinking

Dementia Is Often Preventable

" Nearly half of dementia cases could, in fact, be prevented or delayed if people adopted certain habits, according to the report, which was written by a group of almost 30 experts convened by the Lancet and based on an analysis of hundreds of studies. "

Always forward

Steve Jobs Said 1 Thing Separates Successful People From Everyone Else

" People who eventually find success start by trying things. Lots of things. They succeed at some. They fail at others. They learn from those successes and those failures.

And along the way they seize and at times even create their own opportunities to advance themselves. "

Fall of Tenochtitlan

The end of the Aztecs

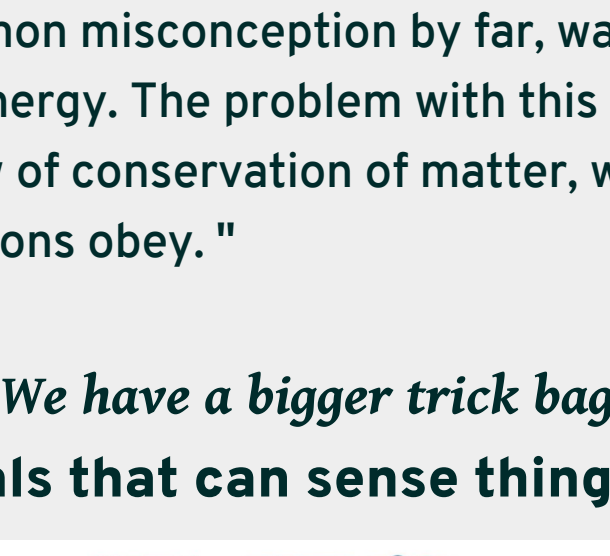

Wiki Rabbit Hole

" Although numerous battles were fought between the Aztec Empire and the Spanish-led coalition, which was composed mainly of Tlaxcaltec men, it was the siege of Tenochtitlan that directly led to the fall of the Aztec civilization and the ensuing sacking and violence against the survivors. The indigenous population at the time was devastated due to a smallpox epidemic, which killed much of its leadership. Because smallpox had been endemic in Spain for centuries, the Spanish had developed an acquired immunity and were affected relatively little in the epidemic. "

Well met

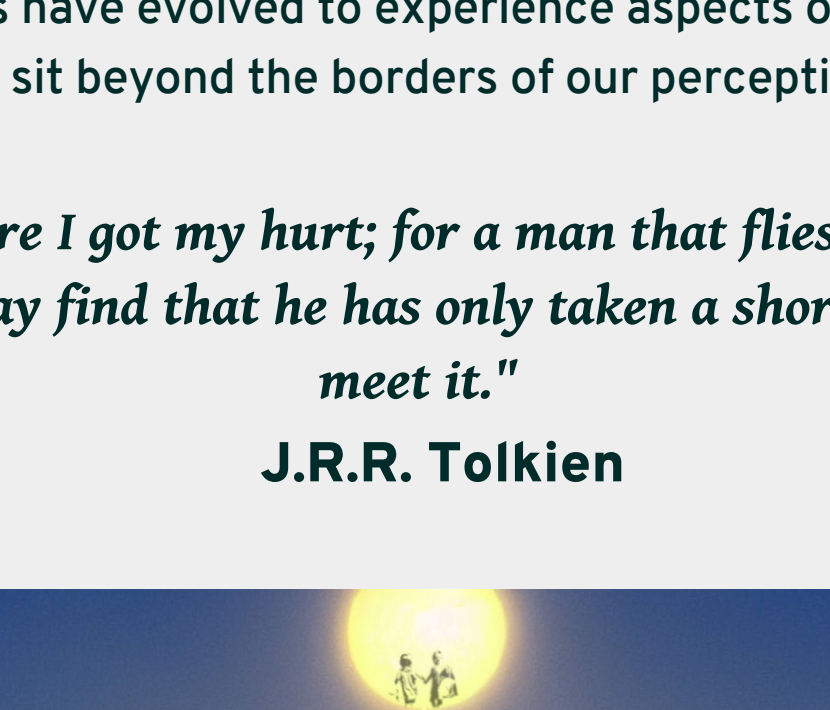

Mark Twain & Helen Keller's Friendship

" Twain's importance to Keller, and hers to him, begins in 1895, when the two met at a lunch held for Keller in New York. According to the Mark Twain Library's extensive documentary exhibit, Keller 'seemed to feel more at ease with Twain than with any of the other guests.' She would later write, 'He treated me not as a freak, but as a handicapped woman seeking a way to circumvent extraordinary difficulties.' "

Good question

When we lose weight, where does it go?

" Even the 150 doctors, dietitians and personal trainers we surveyed shared this surprising gap in their health literacy. The most common misconception by far, was that fat is converted to energy. The problem with this theory is that it violates the law of conservation of matter, which all chemical reactions obey. "

We have a bigger trick bag

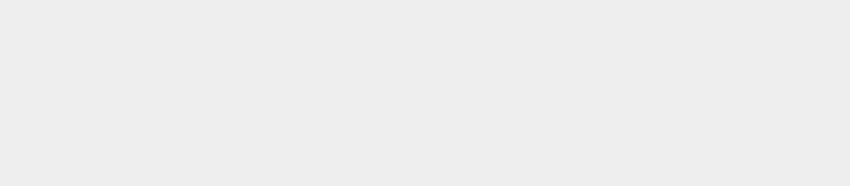

Five animals that can sense things you can't

" The more we learn about other species, the less impressive even our sharpest sensory powers become. Take sight: Pit vipers have infrared vision, bees can view ultraviolet light, and electric eels use their zaps to “see” through the murky waters of the Amazon. These animals and others have evolved to experience aspects of the world that sit beyond the borders of our perception. "

"And there I got my hurt; for a man that flies from his fear may find that he has only taken a short cut to meet it."
